Gregory A. Lee, Senior Vice President of Asset Management for Gundaker Commercial Group, has over 25 years experience in the field of asset management. His vast knowledge of commercial real estate includes management in commercial office, retail and multi-family projects, in a wide array of atmospheres, including renovation of multi-family housing complexes under the guidelines of state accredited low-income housing tax credit programs, new construction and renovation of commercial office space; and decision making responsibilities throughout the design/build phase of projects.

Greg has a thorough understanding of the economics of refinancing and tax-free exchanges, making him a key player in the management team for Gundaker Commercial Group. He has extensive knowledge of the various markets throughout the country and has successfully executed projects in a variety of locations. He provides smooth transition methods for clients throughout the development process and coordinates each aspect of the transaction through Gundaker Commercial Group's other divisions. He provides an accurate asset management perspective for each project and communicates with each member of his team to ensure the highest quality work for every undertaking.

Greg holds a BA degree in Economics and Finance from the University of Missouri—Columbia and an MBA in Finance and Accounting from Southern Illinois University—Edwardsville. He is an active member of several industry related organizations, including the Real Estate Board and the Missouri Apartment Association. He is the Past President of the St. Louis Apartment Association and a member of the Board of Directors for Independence Center.
